

A Journal of the Plague Year: Three Years Later

Monday, March 13 | 4-6 p.m.
Coor Hall 4403 & zoom

On March 13, 2020 we created A Journal of A Plague Semester to collect experiences of the pandemic; the project quickly expanded into a curatorial consortium that spanned the globe. Three years later, A Journal of a Plague Year contains over 19,000 items and is still growing. Whether you helped to curate JOTPY or are merely interested in how we've documented the pandemic, please join us in person or virtually as we acknowledge the work of our curators with keynote speaker Kit Heintzman. Join us for a discussion of the pandemic, thoughts about the future of pandemic archives (and JOTPY), and a pandemic cocktail.

Kit Heintzman is a recovering academic currently residing in Lenapehoking, who was trained in the medical humanities with a special interest in queer theory, animals, and the history of nationalism. Kit has developed a singular collection of oral histories of the pandemic for A Journal of the Plague Year, collected from a range of individuals with widely diverse experiences. That collection addresses significant silences surrounding the pandemic broadly and within JOTPY more narrowly.
