

CHRISTIAN PENN, PROJECTIVITY

Projectivity is a collective of artists, musicians, and educators creating outlets for the public to learn, experience, and showcase their passions through music and art. We are a registered 501c(3) non-profit organization.

For over 10 years we have worked with public and private schools, as well as juvenile justice programs and agencies, providing education and resources for young adults to:

- develop a passion for media and the arts
- build confidence and leadership skills
- gain employment and pursue a career in the arts
- give back to the community, contribute to public art projects and participate in local event

KATHLEEN RUOTI has a MFA in printmaking from Pratt Institute and a BA in Fine Arts from Rider University. She is an accomplished teacher, printmaker, knitter and an all around multi-disciplinary artist recently expanding into jewelry making. She has received awards, been published and slides of her work have been registered with several libraries for educational purposes. Creating these mosaic castles provided a sense of calm and therapy during the pandemic.
