EMILY LONG

Emily Long is an artist and art educator based in New York City. She is interested in illustrating the relationship between one's self and their surroundings. Her works on paper bring humans and nature together to articulate diverse stories, rich with symbolism and organic forms. During the past year, when everything slowed down she was able to start a new series titled 'Earth Baked Portraits.' Taking her love for plants and portraits she applied them to a new canvas, terra cotta planters.

JAHTIEK LONG

Jahtiek Long is an interdisciplinary artist, emerging curator, artist, musician, and community organizer. Recently his work has been predominantly centered around subverting the "traditional" narrative surrounding Staten Island and providing a shift in perspective of the borough and its people. His work has been featured by PBS, NY1, The Staten Island Advance, and Inked Magazine.
